Liver Fluke

If you have been dealing with active liver fluke on your farm in either cattle or sheep, an early spring treatment with an adulticide product can be part of the treatment protocol. Solantel contains the active ingredient closantel, which is effective against fluke larvae of 7 weeks or over and adult fluke in beef cattle (with the pour-on) and sheep (with the drench). Closamectin pour-on is an alternative treatment, especially if you need to worm or treat for ectoparasites at the same time

If lice rear their heads this winter, something made more likely with the extraordinarily high temperatures we have been seeing, then Spotinor is a great product to address it with. Available in various size packs and with great prices on offer, this would be the ideal solution for those itchy stock!
