

June Products of the Month

Taurador

As we get to the point post-turnout where we may need to start worming our young cattle (based on worm egg count results, parasite risk assessment and/or clinical signs), we are happy to recommend Taurador. Taurador contains pour-on doramectin, a long-lasting member of the ivermectin group of wormers. Its duration of action means fewer treatments are required for grazing animals, reducing the number of times the stock have to be handled.

Bimectin Pour-On and Injection

Bimectin contains the active ingredient Ivermectin and is an effective, short acting and easy to use product that targets a whole range of gut worms, lungworm, lice and mange. Used as part of a responsible parasite control plan, you can choose pour-on or injectable forms of the drug to suit your needs and facilities and to maximise the health and productivity of your cattle.

For more information about parasite control, please ring us at the practice and speak to one of our vets.

June Sheep Products of the Month

Endospec

Endospec contains Albendazole (part of the white drench class of wormers). It is broad spectrum, designed for easy and accurate lamb dosing, only has a 4-day meat withdrawal and contains added selenium and cobalt. Use your parasite forecasts and worm egg counts at the practice to assess worm risks and give us a call for a great deal on Endospec if you need to treat your lambs.

Crovect

Fly season is well and truly upon us, with cases of strike already being seen in the practice. Crovect pour-on is used for the treatment of active strike and for its prevention in sheep. It also protects against ticks, headflies and biting lice. We also have a wide range of other anti-fly products in the practice if you need something different.

For more information or advice about these conditions please ring us at the practice and speak to one of our vets.
