Bimectin Pour-On and Injection

Bimectin contains the active ingredient Ivermectin and is an effective and easy to use product that targets a whole range of gut worms, lungworm, lice and mange. Used as part of a responsible parasite control plan, you can choose pour-on or injectable forms of the drug to suit your needs and facilities and to maximise the health and productivity of your cattle

Bovikalc Calcium Boluses

While we are all familiar with clinical milk fever and the use of IV calcium to treat it, there is a lot of research to show that sub-clinical milk fever is a very common occurrence in dairy cows and has numerous negative effects on the health and performance. The risk of LDAs, ketosis, RFM and metritis all go up in cows that have sub-clinical milk fever

One of the strategies to reduce this risk is the use of oral calcium supplementation at calving. Bovikalc boluses are designed to provide quick and sustained calcium release to support the cow's calcium levels at the time of greatest demand

May Deals of the Month

Vecoxan

Coccidiosis is a severe disease of both lambs and calves that causes significant levels of mortality and can damage the guts of those who survive, reducing their growth rates and health long term. Vecoxan both treats and prevents coccidiosis, with no meat withdrawal and a single oral dose. Vecoxan also allows the animal to acquire natural immunity to the disease

Crovect

Fly season is well and truly upon us, with cases of strike already being seen in the practice. Crovect pour-on is used for the treatment of active strike and for its prevention in sheep. It also protects against ticks, headflies and biting lice
